EVERYTHING READY

FOR FIRST COMMUNITY LIFE CONFERENCE TOMORROW.

GOV. HADLEY OUR GUEST

Dinner and Luncheon in His Honor.
—Public Reception at State Normal Building 5 to 6 P. M.

All arrangements are completed for the First Rural Community Life Conference to be held on Wednesday at the Normal auditorium. There will be three sessions, the morning session to commence at 9 o'clock, the afternoon at 1:45 o'clock, and the evening at 8 o'clock.

Governor Herbert S. Hadley, the main speaker of the conference, will be the city's guest and a dinner will be given in his honor Wednesday noon and also Wednesday evening. W. C. Pierce will be the host at the dinner at noon and President H. K. Taylor of the Normal in the evening.

Governor Hadley will arrive in the city on the noon Burlington train and will be in the city until Thursday morning when he will leave for Tarkio. He is not to speak at the conference until Wednesday evening and his subject will be "Rural Community Life."

The reception to Governor Hadley at the Normal school from 5 to 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, is open to the public and everybody is cordially invited. At the conclusion of the afternoon's program in the auditorium at 5 o'clock, Governor Hadley, escorted by the board of regents, will retire to the south wing of the library where the governor will receive the public. The time devoted to this feature of the governor's stay in Maryville must necessarily be brief because of other engagements on that evening. The Normal school authorities are exceedingly anxious that everybody should feel free and welcome to come and attend the sessions of the conference and also the reception to the governor.

Some changes have been made on the program. Prof. J. H. Miller of the extension department of the State Normal school at Manhattan, Kan., is to talk on "Good Roads and How to Make Them" in the afternoon instead of C. B. McCullough of Iowa. Mrs. W. G. Cooper of Savannah will discuss the Country Home and its surroundings in place of Miss Ruth Michaels of Iowa college at Ames, who was also unable to come.

The affair promises to be a largely attended one and one of the big events in the history of the school. Other out-of-town speakers on the program are R. T. Forbes, president First National bank of St. Joseph, Dr. Daniel Morton of St. Joseph; Supt. O. E. Hall of Crawfordville, Ind.; Charles D. Morris, editor of the Gazette at St. Joseph; Prof. S. M. Jordan of Pettis county; Benton Gabbert of Platte county; Mrs. Sarah Huffalin of Clarinda; Mrs. John Wilson of Graham; Mrs. W. G. Cooper of Savannah.

A meeting of the Republican county committee was held in Maryville Tuesday afternoon, having been called by Sheriff Tilson, who is chairman of the committee. The purpose of the meeting, it is said, is to devise ways and means of starting off the Republican campaign.

As Republicans have not filed for a number of county offices, the committee wanted to canvass the situation and will probably urge that all of the county places be filled before the filing time closes on Thursday so as to get on the primary ticket. The members of the committee present were: Sheriff Tilson of Polk; H. J. Alden of Atchison; Madison Goodson of Jackson; James Stewart of Grant; Albert Shinabargar of White Cloud; Andy Roof of Independence; and Willis Oxley of Hopkins.

TO STOP FAST DRIVING.

City is to go After Auto Drivers That Go at a Fast Gait.

The city authorities intend to stop fast driving by automobile drivers, according to a notice of warning in today's paper. Many complaints have been made by the people of fast driving and authorities are to get busy at once on stopping it.

Marshal Moberly has been taking the record of some cars for the past week or so and there are many who travel around the streets in the business section at a rate of 20 to 30 miles an hour.

The notice from Mayor Robey and Marshal Moberly say that all policemen have been given strict orders to see that the ordinance prohibiting fast driving is enforced and that a sharp lookout will be kept for the offenders against the ordinance.

A SALOON LICENSE UPHOLD.

Petitioners to Have a Permit Revoked Fail in the Appellate Court.

The Kansas City Court of Appeals Monday refused to review the action of the county court in granting a saloon license to W. H. Dixon, 915 Walnut street, says the Kansas City Star. After the license was granted, protesters carried the matter up to the appellate court, asserting that there had not been a sufficient number of legal signatures on Dixon's petition.

Judge Ellison, in deciding the case Monday morning, said: "When the county court does not overstep the law this court has no jurisdiction over its acts."

HOLT TO GRADUATE

MARYVILLE BOY IN THE 1912 CLASS AT ANNAPOLIS ACADEMY

GRADUATED WITH HONOR

Is a Son of Mr. L. R. Holt of This City—Is Lauded by His Classmates and Known as "Plug."

Two young men from Missouri will receive their commissions as ensigns at the naval academy at Annapolis, Md., this week, following their graduation from the midshipmen stage. They are Ralph Waldo Holt, son of Mr. L. R. Holt of this city, and Oliver Walton Bagby of New Haven.

Mr. Holt graduated with honor, and has gone through his course with credit to himself and his congressional sponsors. He is also well thought of among his associates in the first class of midshipmen. This is shown by the biographies printed in The Lucky Bag, the annual class publication, which contains short biographical sketches of all the graduating class, together with apt references to the personal traits of the men themselves, as they have developed during their term in the academy.

Midshipman Holt, the Maryville boy, is known among his associates as "Plug" and this is what The Lucky Bag says of him:

"To know 'Plug' well you must have lived on the ground deck and felt the wintry breezes frolicking under your bedclothes and hiding in your trousers legs. It has been Ralph Waldo's delight to leave the wing door open on going for a 5 a. m. scamper up the terrace, or to open all his doors and windows for hourly breathing exercises. He acquired all these bad habits from 'Big' Brown.

"Plug is rather domestically inclined and does not aspire to a life on the sea—especially when the forecastle begins to get damp, two or three days out. On first class cruise, however, he partially outgrew his youthful habit and became an associate member of the 'Massay's Independents' and drew their usual reward—all cruise a close rival of 'Spig's' for the honors at their end.

"During the whole course Plug has been a quiet, hard-working man of the sort that make good, while a good many others are making more spectacular progress—in the wrong direction."

LARGEST ATTENDED TERM.

This Year's Normal Summer Term Enrollment Quite An Increase Over Last Year.

The total enrollment of the Normal summer term up to Tuesday was 395. Many more are expected in and the enrollment will probably reach the 500 mark. In 1910, there were 223 enrolled for the summer term, and in 1911, there were 348 enrolled.

CANDIDATES ARE FILING.

W. J. Skidmore of Skidmore, in the Race for Representative and J. E. Reese for Surveyor.

W. J. Skidmore of Skidmore, filed Tuesday as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for representative from Nodaway county. There is one other candidate for this position, W. B. Gex of Hughes township. Mr. Skidmore was formally a newspaper man, being editor of the old Skidmore Standard. He is a good man for the office he seeks.

County Highway Engineer Reese also filed Tuesday as a candidate for county surveyor on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Reese is well qualified for the office he seeks.

SENT MAN TO COUNTY FARM.

Court Also Took Up Many Road and Bridge Matters on Tuesday.

The county court in session Tuesday, considered many road and bridge matters. An order was made sending Max Stoltz of Conception, to the county poor farm instead of the asylum at St. Joseph. Stoltz is 60 years old and has a family living at Conception.

A party from Barnard composed of John A. Fields, Sam Collin, Dr. M. M. Pollard and James Stewart were with the court Tuesday afternoon in regard to a bridge in Grant township.

The court did not approve of the sale of the dormitory building at the county poor farm last Friday. The building was sold for $325 and the court believes that this is too cheap a price. Probably another sale will be had.

Orcutt-Fisher Nuptials.

A quiet, pretty wedding took place Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Orcutt, 1209 East Fourth street, when their second daughter, Mary, was given in marriage to Mr. Arthur L. Fisher of Tyro, Kan. The ceremony was performed at two o'clock by Rev. Claude J. Miller of the First Christian Church, in the presence of the family and a few intimate friends. A three-course wedding luncheon in green and white followed. The table was centered with a large crystal basket of white flowers, roses and syringas. Ropes of smilax hung from the electrolier and were caught at the corners and sides of the table where stood the crystal candle holder that held unshaded candles. The cupid place cards were tied with white ribbons. Plates were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Orcutt and daughters, Miss Alice Orcutt and Bernice; Rev. and Mrs. Claude J. Miller, Miss Margaret McDougal and Miss Phyllis Saylor.

The bride was simply dressed in white voile made over net, with trimmings of hand-made macramé lace, and her hair was wreathed in white roses. Her little sister, Bernice, prettily dressed in white, stood by her side during the ceremony carrying a basket of white roses. Just before the ceremony Miss Phyllis Saylor sang "O, Promise Me" and "My Sweet." The bride and groom left on the evening Burlington train for a few days' stay in Kansas City, when they will go to their home in Tyro, Kan., where a home is in complete readiness for them, even to a growing garden. Mr. Fisher is a successful merchant of Tyro and is in every way worthy of the bride he has won. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Fisher of Caney, Kan. The elder Mr. Fisher has been a merchant of Caney for many years and is also president of the board of education there. Mrs. Fisher is one of Maryville's sweetest and best girls. She graduated from the high school in the class of 1908 and from the Northwest Normal with the class of 1911. She taught in the schools of Fairfax two years and the past year in the schools of Caney, Kan. She has been an active member of the Christian Church since childhood, has always been popular socially, and was a member of the Sigma Delta Chi sorority, a social organization of State Normal girls. The best wishes of hosts of friends will go with her.

TO MAKE OCEAN TRAVEL SAFER

Bill Just Introduced Safeguards Lives of Liners' Passengers.

SUGGESTED BY TITANIC WRECK

Stringent Regulation and Control of Wireless Communication One of Important Points Embodied in New Laws.

Washington, June 4.—An all-inclusive bill, to be denominated "the ocean safety act of 1912," designed to cover all the navigation lessons drawn from the Titanic disaster, was introduced by Senator Nelson of Minnesota, chairman of the commerce committee, which through a subcommittee investigated that disaster.

The bill includes stringent regulations for better wireless equipment, continuously operated on ocean and Great Lakes vessels carrying 50 or more persons, just as provided in a bill which has passed the house and almost identical with a bill already passed by the senate. This wireless section vests control of the apparatus in the master of the vessel and to avoid the wireless communication being shut off by failure of the vessel's engines, requires a powerful auxiliary power supply that can communicate 100 miles at all times.

Recognizes Foreign Laws.

The Nelson bill would recognize foreign steamship laws whenever they are as effective as American laws and regulations; would equip every passenger craft leaving an American port with sufficient lifeboats to accommodate everybody aboard, together with other safety equipment; and would create a commission of five persons to investigate here and abroad merchant marine construction. It would require rigid port examination, boat drills, define qualification of seamen; penalize failure to assist any person in distress at sea; and make criminally liable any master, managing owner, steamship director or principal resident agent of a foreign steamship for sending from an American port a vessel so unseaworthy as to endanger life.

No Duty on War Material.

The $1,000,000 provision of the naval appropriation bill for a great wireless station system is designed to provide direct control of the American naval vessels from Washington "throughout all probable spheres of action" and to maintain the direct communication with the insular possessions and Alaska, despite the possible failure or destruction of cables. It is regarded by the navy department as vital to national defense.

Free admission of war material from abroad is urged by the administration, not because any such purchases are now contemplated, but because the navy department might be forced to buy abroad in emergency. The house bill would make it impossible for the government to procure powder if the government factory at Indian Head, Md., should be disabled, and the senate committee corrected this.

TO DISCUSS LABOR'S DISEASES

Prominent Physicians and Health Officials Meet to Plan Protective Legislation for Workers.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 4.—The second National Conference on Industrial Diseases, under the auspices of the American Association for Labor Legislation, is in session at Atlantic City, with a two days' program, including a joint meeting with the American Medical association, which covers practically every phase of the hygiene of occupations and contains the names of leading American authorities on the prevention and treatment of diseases caused by work. The delegates include prominent physicians, labor and health bureau officials, sanitary inspectors, special investigators of labor problems, insurance experts, industrial engineers and representatives of labor organizations. The key-note of the conference is the need for thorough investigation of the physical ills to which working men and working women are subject by reason of their occupations, as a basis for protective labor legislation in the interest of health and efficiency.

The first session, which met at the Hotel Marlborough this morning, was called to order by Charles P. Neill, United States commissioner of labor. The subject under discussion was the "Investigation of Industrial Diseases," and addresses were made by Leonard W. Hatch, chief statistician of the New York department of labor; Dr. Richard C. Cabot, founder of the social service department of the Massachusetts general hospital, and Frederick Hoffman, expert on unhealthful trades and industrial diseases.

Rooster Attacked Boy.

Munden, Kan., June 4.—The seven-year-old son of F. R. Bachelor, a furniture dealer of Belleville, while visiting in Munden, was attacked by a Rhode Island Red rooster. The rooster got the boy down and pecked him severely before it was chased away. The boy's injuries are not dangerous.

TAFT GREET'S GERMAN FLEET

Visitors to American Waters Extended Hand of Friendship.

ADMIRAL TOASTED PRESIDENT

Commander of Kaiser's Navy Entertained at Formal Dinner Aboard Yacht of American Executive.

Fort Monroe, Va., June 4.—Out on the heaving waters of Hampton Roads President Taft welcomed a great foreign fleet to American waters when he extended the hand of friendship to Rear Admiral Von Rebeur-Pasch-witz, commanding the visiting division of the German navy.

While more than 1,000 brawny German sailors stood at attention on the decks of the giant Moltke, Germany's battle cruiser, President Taft boarded the vessel. At the gangway Admiral Von Rebeur-Paschwitz and his staff waited to greet the chief executive.
As the president stepped from the ladder that led him over the side of the Moltke, he extended his hand in greeting to the German admiral.

The president was escorted over the big German vessel, the crew standing at quarters, saluting as the party passed. Every part of the battle cruiser was scrubbed and holy-stoned, every spar and line bore its quota of brilliant bunting and every individual sailor was trim in holiday attire.

As the president left the Moltke
the German warship's band struck up the Star Spangled Banner and on the gun deck a six-pounder barked out
the 21 guns of the presidential salute.
The president, his formal call of welcome over, returned to the Mayflower, the trim white yacht that loomed tiny and slim beside the great gray, grim sides of the German liners.
A short distance away the American battleship squadron that welcomed the visitors swung idly at anchor. Seven great vessels including the new dreadnoughts Delaware and Utah, dressed ship as the president and the admiral exchanged courtesies.

No sooner had the president returned to the Mayflower than the chugging launch of the Moltke swung away to carry the German admiral to return the call and lunch with the president aboard the yacht. Cordial toasts were exchanged aboard both the Mayflower and Moltke, where President Taft raised his glass to the health of the German emperor and Admiral Von Rebeur-Paschwitz toasted the president.

As the admiral left the Mayflower,
the crews of all the ships in a double column through which the German vessels had passed up the roads, manned the rails. Down the line the booming six-pounders roared their parting salute out over the broad reaches of the roads.

This ended the president's part in the formalities of greeting the foreign fleet and the head of the Mayflower was turned to Washington. The officers of the American fleet then took up the task of entertaining the visitors.

A formal dinner was given the officers of the German fleet on board the dreadnought Florida.

ON CROSS-STATE HIGHWAY TRIP

Automobile Parties Leave Both Ends
of Route to Meet at Brookfield for Big Celebration.

Hannibal, Mo., June 4.—The executive committee of the cross-state highway, composed of good roads advocates from the cities along the route from Hannibal to St. Joseph left here in automobiles for a trip over the cross-state highway. In the first party were the executive committee of the road organization, Curtis Hill, state highway commissioner, and his assistants, John L. Zeidler, president of the St. Joseph Automobile club, and 15 members of the Hannibal Automobile club. Stops will be made at each town and village along the line and short addresses on good roads will be made by the different members of the party.

Tuesday night a meeting will be held at Macon and early Wednesday morning the motorists, escorted by a number of the members of the Brookfield Automobile club, will continue on the journey westward. At the same time the cars leave Hannibal another party will begin the journey eastward across the state, and the two delegations will meet at Brookfield about noon Wednesday and in the afternoon
a big joint highway meeting will be held.

Plot to Kill Officers.

New York, June 4.—Several members of the Lupo-Morello gang of federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., have formed a plot to assassinate William J. Flynn, chief of the local division of the secret service, who captured the counterfeiters, and Judge George W. Ray of the district court, who sentenced them to terms of from 15 to 30 years at hard labor. One of the men told of the plot.

AMERICA AT WIRELESS MEET

REPRESENTED IN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE AT LONDON.

First Time This Country Has Taken Part, Owing to Power of Corporations to Prevent.

London, June 4.—For the first time in the history of wireless communication the United States is represented in the Triennial International Radio-Telegraph conference, which opened here today. In all the previous conventions and conferences
where the nations of the world gathered to formulate laws and frame regulations for the transmission of messages through the air, the United States was unrepresented, because of the power of the United Wireless company and other like corporations in America to prevent congress from ratifying the Berlin conference of 1906, wherein the European nations pledged themselves to send delegates to a wireless conference, to be held every three years. But congress, in March last, ratified the Berlin conference, and accordingly 11 representatives of the United States appeared at the present conference.

Because of the Titanic disaster, wherein the wireless played a most prominent and important part, this meeting of the international conference is expected to be the most important ever held.

Among the subjects to be discussed during the coming two weeks are:
International distress signals; conduct of operators in case of danger;
reclassification of signals for international craft (including an entire re-district of the United States vessels), and an appeal to the nations of the world to legislate against amateurs being allowed to break into messages and use the air during times of danger or great stress of business.

The American delegates have expressed themselves as being particularly interested in questions arising from the use of wireless in the navy and the adoption of an international code which will do away with the frequent confusion now arising because of the use of several codes by operators in various parts of the world.
The importance of one code for important business, say the majority of the delegates, cannot be overestimated, and it is certain that the present conference will bend a great part of its energies in this direction.

An effort will also be made by the American delegates to bring the next meeting of the conference—in 1915—
to the United States. This will meet with a great deal of opposition from the European countries.

LET THE BIG ONES OFF TOO EASY

U. S. Attorney Gives His Opinion on Rulings of Judge Archbald in Big Cases.

Washington, June 4.—Henry Wise,
United States attorney for New York, gave his opinions before the house judiciary committee of the judicial conduct of Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court in the wire pool anti-trust cases in New York last July. Judge Archbald fined most of the 80 odd defendants $1,000 each after they had pleaded guilty to criminal violations of the Sherman law.

Mr. Wise expressed the view that the defendants escaped with inadequate fines. He also gave the committee his reasons for complaining against the acceptance of the nolle contendere pleas.

Land Grafter Freed.

Washington, June 4.—President Taft granted an unconditional pardon
to Willard Jones of Portland, Ore., convicted of land frauds in the cases in which the late Senator Mitchell of Oregon, and Blinger Hermann, ex-commissioner of the general land office,
were alleged to have been implicated.
The pardon was based on the grounds that improper methods had been pursued in filling the jury box from which the Jones jury was drawn.

Rich Indian Killed.

Sapulpa, Ok., June 4.—Samuel Davis, a wealthy Indian and a college graduate, was killed between Sapulpa and Kellyville when he jumped off a moving train and was thrown under the wheels. Davis was intoxicated.

BOTH SIDES FOR OPEN HEARING

President Thinks Contest Over Delegates Public Matter.

REQUESTS PUBLIC BE ADMITTED

Deliberations of Committee in Republican Contest Cases Will Probably be Carried on in Open Session.

Chicago, June 4.—President Taft has written to Harry S. New, chairman of the subcommittee on arrangements for the national Republican convention, suggesting that the meetings of the national committee at which contests are heard be thrown open to the press and the public.

The president's letter was just received at the national committee headquarters. In it he suggests that Mr.
New take up with the committee the matter of open hearings; and that, if the committee finds it possible, the deliberations over the contests—230
of which have already been prepared for submission—be carried on in open sessions.

This, taken in connection with the previous request of Col. Roosevelt for publicity of the contest argument, indicates that the doors probably will be thrown open, at least to newspaper men, when the committee takes up contested delegate cases Friday morning.

Express No Opinion.

Few members of the national committee have yet reached Chicago and of those here none would express a definite opinion as to the action of the committee on the matter of public arguments. The president's letter was the chief subject of discussion at the political headquarters.

The Southern delegates situation was vigorously discussed by two members of the national committee who have reached Chicago. Henry S.
Chubb, committeeman for Florida, declared it was "a reflection upon the integrity of Florida Republicans" to hint that they would not stand by their instructions for President Taft.

"Florida's 12 delegates are instructed for Taft," said Mr. Chubb, "and they will vote for him through thick and thin."

Southerners to Organize.

Gen. Powell Clayton, committeeman for Arkansas, said Southern committeemen and delegates would organize before the convention to fight any proposal to reduce the representation of Southern states. The attempt made four years ago, to reduce representation to the basis of the Republican vote cast in the Southern states, caught the Southern delegates and committeemen unprepared, he said;
but if it be attempted again it would be fought in the convention.

CADETS GET TASTE OF ARMY LIFE

Boys From Kansas Agricultural College Gaining Experience on Four-Day March.

Manhattan, Kan., June 4.—The cadets at the Kansas agricultural college are in camp on the national guard target range, six miles northwest of Manhattan. The entire corps of four companies are on a four-day
march and will return Monday.

The purpose of the march is to give the cadets actual practice in military science and tactics. The regulation camp routine of the army is followed.

A large supply of tents was taken along and every man carried his own equipment. Two cooks from the school of cooking and baking at Fort Riley prepared the meals for the cadets and a special instructor gives lessons in camp cookery.

A special feature of the march is target practice. Seventy-two hundred rounds of ammunition were taken along and two, three, five and 600-yard ranges established. There also will be a sham battle one day.

In Memory of Jeff Davis.

New Orleans, June 4.—Exercises in honor of the anniversary of Jefferson Davis, first and only president of the Confederacy, were held throughout the South by the Daughters of the Confederacy and affiliated organizations. It was a legal holiday in Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and South Carolina.

A Word of Warning to Automobile Drivers

There has been considerable fast driving by a few automobile drivers whose names, and a record of their speed we now have, some going so fast as to endanger their own safety.

Now to all those who have exceeded the speed limit up to this date, we will make no charge, for past offenses.

We have given all policemen strict orders to see that the ordinance prohibiting fast driving be lived up to.

There is going to be a great many entertainments going on this summer and fall, that will bring crowds of people here, and unless this fast driving is stopped someone will get seriously hurt, and perhaps killed. We don't want to have to punish anyone, but will have to do so if this exceeding the speed limit is not stopped.

The police will keep a sharp lookout for the offenders, and from now on they will be arrested.

WABASH EMPLOYS A "WATER DOCTOR"

Newly Appointed Official Will See That The Wabash Locomotives Drink Nothing But "Pure" Water.

"He has a stomach of iron" can no longer mean that a man may eat anything without fear of indigestion; for it seems that even stomachs of iron are thus afflicted.

Mr. W. A. Pownall, the newly appointed Water Inspector of the Wabash, says that locomotives have persistent attacks of "dyspepsia,"—and it is costing the railroads so much money that it has been put up to Mr. Pownall to work a "cure."

It seems that all waters have more or less of two kinds of mineral salts—"incrusting salts" and "alkali salts," as Mr. Pownall terms them. These salts clog up the boiler very quickly and make it necessary to have the boiler "blown off" frequently, and now and then even taken out of service and washed. Both the blow-outs and the lay-offs mean a loss of money—the amount of which the railroads have now figured almost exactly.

By the liberal use of soda ash, through certain chemical processes, these "salts" can be practically elim-nated from the water. However, as the waters vary at different points, the treatment must also vary; but the Wabash purposes to have the water at every point "cured" so that it will be exactly suited to locomotive consumption.

The cost of the treatment is about $17 per engine per year; but it is estimated that the saving on each engine because of the use of "cured" water will amount to over $400 per year. When it is realized that the Wabash has several hundred engines in service, it can be seen that a "water doctor" is a mighty handy official to have around; also a good investment.

Not only will the Wabash be benefited by the study of the local water conditions over its entire system, but industrial plants along the Wabash lines will be able to take advantage of Mr. Pownall's researches and thereby save themselves thousands of dollars annually in wear and tear to their equipment.

George Verner entered a crowded surface car and found the last unoccupied seat. It chanced to be directly behind a very young woman and an infant.

Verner attempted to become interested in his paper, but the profile of the girl ahead of him stole his glances with every turn of her head. She was very young, very new to motherhood apparently; the man behind knew this because of the frantic, strained effort she made to keep the child in one position that it might not awake. A more experienced mother would have known that the baby would rest more comfortably in the easy relaxation of her arms. Verner remembered the fearful, breathless clutch with which he had first held his sister's baby, but gradually that feeling of holding a breakable toy had left him.

There was that same fear in the eyes of the young girl ahead of him, and Verner knew that she was living in momentary dread of the child falling to pieces in her arms.

He was beginning to sense the strain of her tense attitude when the car came to a stop.

"Car ahead!" yelled the conductor.

The passengers, in various stages of peevishness, gathered themselves and their belongings and prepared to follow the conductor's bidding.

Not so with the woman and the baby. She cast one startled glance at the outgoing passengers, and then her eyes met Verner's. There was positive tragedy in their depths. Then it was that Verner saw the big suit case on the floor beside her.

"How did she manage to get on the car if she couldn't get off with a suit case and a baby?" Verner asked himself while he raised his cap and addressed her.

"If you will permit me—I will carry—"

"Oh—if you would be so kind," she gasped in a frightened little voice, and before Verner realized it she had put the baby in his arms and was about to pick up the suit case. "I am more used to this," she said with a half blush.

"I can easily take both," Verner told her as he swung the tiny infant against one big shoulder and took the suit case from her.

"Her eyes are decidedly coquettish for a young mother," was his inward comment as he helped her into the car ahead. He found it within his consciousness to condemn married flirts, even though they had shaded gray eyes and one elusive dimple.

When he had put her comfortably into another seat in the car ahead she made room for him beside her and sent up a smile into Verner's eyes.

Although he felt himself to be treading on dangerous ground, he accepted the offered seat. His destination was a few blocks beyond and he felt that his heart could not be hopelessly damaged in so short a time. He sighed as he wondered who the man might be who called this little beauty his own.

"You seem perfectly at home with babies," the girl remarked by way of breaking a more or less awkward silence.

"I have three of my own," Verner told her in a half jesting manner, and wondered afterward why he wanted to convey that impression.

"Oh," was all the girl said, but her tone was noticeably colder, her attitude more aloof.

The girl's frigidity spurred on the man's imagination. He talked glibly of a beautiful wife and children whom he had never seen, of a home he had never known.

An inscrutable smile, not unlike that of the Mona Lisa, hovered over the young woman's eyes and lips. Verner wondered whether or not she was believing him.

A sense of irritation stole over him at the mockery in her eyes, and when his destination drew near he was half glad, half sorry.

"I regret I cannot go on with you and help you when you get off the car," he said by way of leave taking. "I have a business engagement."

"Thank you very much," she replied sweetly, "but baby's father will meet us at the end of the line."

Verner bowed formally and received a cool little nod in response. Nor did he give way to his desire to turn and watch the car as it whizzed off toward the end of the suburban line.

The young woman looked regretfully after him; then she sighed as she gazed down at the sleeping baby and drew him with greater tenderness into her arms.

"He is too good looking even for dreams," she murmured, and whether she referred to the small man in her arms or the big man on the street no one, perhaps not even the girl herself, knew.

Another meeting did not occur until some three months later. It was at a dance given by the suburban yacht club.

Verner entered the ball room with a stately beauty on his arm. Before they had made one turn of the room he knew that the little mother was among the guests and that she was popular with a number of cavaliers. The stately beauty felt Verner's arms stiffen around her waist and wondered at his sudden lack of interest in her breezy conversation.

She might be a widow, was the thought uppermost in Verner's mind, but the brilliance of her costume and the existence of the tiny infant practically denied this.

Together with his condemnation of married flirts Verner felt irritated and jealous because of the men who dangled over the girl's dance order.

He avoided catching her eye as long as he could, but when she danced so close to him that he saw the mockery in her expression and her nod to him he could only return her greeting. After that Verner found that he was being introduced to her.

"The ninth and seventeenth dances are leap year waltzes, Mr. Verner," she said, looking laughingly into his eyes. "May I please have both of them?"

"You may if I may have two others," he put in quickly.

She blushed swiftly and handed Verner her card.

"Have you a dance left, Miss Gregory?" another moth about the candle questioned the girl.

Verner's startled, interrogative eyes searched the girl's face, and she laughed.

"You are not married—then?" he questioned without regard for the amused listeners.

"Not any more than you are, Mr. Verner." She glanced at him from beneath her lashes. "You know—I didn't believe, even for a moment, that you had three kiddies."

Verner had the grace to blush. "Just the same," he told her laughingly, "you deliberately tried to palm that baby off as yours."

"I did not," she retorted quickly. "You took it entirely for granted. I was merely carrying my brother's baby over to my home and somebody helped me both on and off the car. Of course—" she paused and glanced shyly at Verner—"none of us even dreamed of my having to change cars."

"And yet," he looked deep into her eyes, "it was fortunate—in this case, wasn't it?" He waited with laughter in his eyes but a compelling note in his voice.

Alice Gregory looked up and the dimple came into play.

"Perhaps it was," she said.

Physicians Failed To Help Mrs. Green, But She Finally Found Relief in Cardui.

Meeteetse, Va.—Mrs. J. C. Green of this place, says: "I suffered with womanly troubles so that I could hardly sit up. Two of the best doctors in our town treated me, and I tried different medicines, until I gave up all hope of ever getting well."

One day, I decided to try some Cardui. It did so much for me that I ordered some more, and it cured me! Today, I feel as well as I ever did in my life.

The pains and the trouble are all gone. I feel like another person in every way. I wish every sufferer could know what Cardui will do for sick women."

A few doses of Cardui at the right time, will save many a big doctor bill, by preventing serious sickness.

It tones up the nervous system, and helps make pale cheeks fresh and rosy. Thousands of weak women have been restored to health and happiness by using Cardui. Suppose you try it. It may be just the medicine you need.

Some changes have been made on the program. Prof. J. H. Miller of the extension department of the State Normal school at Manhattan, Kan., is to talk on "Good Roads and How to Make Them" in the afternoon instead of C. B. McCullough of Iowa. Mrs. W. G. A SALOON LICENSE UPHOLD.

Petitioners to Have a Permit Revoked Fall in the Appellate Court.

The Kansas City Court of Appeals Monday refused to review the action of the county court in granting a saloon license to W. H. Dixon, 915 Walnut street, says the Kansas City Star. After the license was granted, protesters carried the matter up to the appellate court, asserting that there had not been a sufficient number of legal signatures on Dixon's petition.

MARYVILLE BOY IN THE 1912 CLASS AT ANNAPOLIS ACADEMY

Is a Son of Mr. L. R. Holt of This City—Is Landed by His Classmates and Known as "Plug."

Two young men from Missouri will receive their commissions as ensigns at the naval academy at Annapolis, Md., this week, following their graduation from the midshipmen stage. They are Ralph Waldo Holt, son of Mr. L. R. Holt of this city, and Oliver Walton Bagby of New Haven.

Mr. Holt graduated with honor, and has gone through his course with credit to himself and his congressional sponsors. He is also well thought of among his associates in the first class of midshipmen. This is shown by the biographies printed in The Lucky Bag, the annual class publication, which contains short biographical sketches of all the graduating class, together with apt references to the personal traits of the men themselves, as they have developed during their term in the academy.

Midshipman Holt, the Maryville boy, is known among his associates as "Plug" and this is what The Lucky Bag says of him:

"To know 'Plug' well you must have lived on the ground deck and felt the wintry breezes frolicking under your bedclothes and hiding in your trousers legs. It has been Ralph Waldo's delight to leave the wing door open on going for a 5 a. m. scamper up the terrace, or to open all his doors and windows for hourly breathing exercises. He acquired all these bad habits from 'Big' Brown.

"Plug is rather domestically inclined and does not aspire to a life on the sea—especially when the forecastle begins to get damp, two or three days out. On first class cruise, however, he partially outgrew his youthful habit and became an associate member of the 'Massay's Independents' and drew their usual reward—all cruise a close rival of 'Spig's' for the honors at their end.

"During the whole course Plug has been a quiet, hard-working man of the sort that make good, while a good many others are making more spectacular progress—in the wrong direction."

LARGEST ATTENDED TERM.

This Year's Normal Summer Term Enrollment Quite An Increase Over Last Year.

The total enrollment of the Normal summer term up to Tuesday was 395. Many more are expected in and the enrollment will probably reach the 500 mark. In 1910, there were 223 enrolled for the summer term, and in 1911, there were 348 enrolled.

CANDIDATES ARE FILING.

W. J. Skidmore of Skidmore, in the Race for Representative and J. E. Reese for Surveyor.

W. J. Skidmore of Skidmore, filed Tuesday as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for representative from Nodaway county. There is one other candidate for this position, W. B. Gex of Hughes township. Mr. Skid was formally a newspaper man, being editor of the old Skidmore Standard. He is a good man for the office he seeks.

County Highway Engineer Reese also filed Tuesday as a candidate for county surveyor on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Reese is well qualified for the office he seeks.

SENT MAN TO COUNTY FARM.

Court Also Took Up Many Road and Bridge Matters on Tuesday.

The county court in session Tuesday, considered many road and bridge matters. An order was made sending Max Stoltz of Conception, to the county poor farm instead of the asylum at St. Joseph. Stoltz is 60 years old and has a family living at Conception.

A party from Barnard composed of John A. Fields, Sam Collin, Dr. M. M. Pollard and James Stewart were with the court Tuesday afternoon in regard to a bridge in Grant township.

The court did not approve of the sale of the dormitory building at the county poor farm, last Friday. The building was sold for $325 and the court believes that this is too cheap a price. Probably another sale will be had.

At their meeting Monday evening, the Woodmen decided to join in with the Owls and appointed Frank Bolin as chairman of the committee in charge, he to appoint other members. He selected Roy Martin and M. H. Borrasch.

Arrangements for the celebration have not been completed yet. The speakers will probably be some of the county candidates. Other events will be sack races and running races.

Lesh, administered the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. DOGS LURE GRAY WOLF TO DEATH

Followed Farmers Pets in Rabbit
Hunt, and Was Finally Killed
With Rifle.

Cottonwood Falls, Kan., June 4.— Otto Frey, a farmer living in the northern part of the county, killed a large gray wolf which had made friends with his dogs and joined them in hunting.

When Frey went to work in his fields he was followed by his dogs, which spent their time hunting for rabbits in a rough, rocky pasture. One morning the dogs returned followed by a big gray wolf. Every day after that the wolf would venture nearer the farmer when his dogs came in from the field. Frey began carrying a rifle with him and finally shot the animal, which was an unusually large male wolf.

Bolckow Newly-Weds Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Goforth and children returned Sunday night from Bolckow where they had been visiting Mr. Goforth's parents a few days. On Sunday they attended a family dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Wier Cooper of Bolckow, a recent bride and groom, who have just taken possession of their new home. It was their first Sunday in their home, so they gave a dinner to their parents, brothers and sisters in commemoration of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper entertained their guests with all the dignity and gravity of manner of those who have been presiding over a home for years, instead of days. Three of the company, Mrs. W. E. Goforth, Doris and Donald, have the honor of being the first guests in their home.
They were entertained at luncheon
by Mr. and Mrs. Cooper on Saturday evening. The Sunday dinner guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goforth, the parents of Mrs. Cooper; Mrs. A.
L. Cooper and daughter, Miss Dora
Cooper, mother and sister of Mr.
Cooper; and the other members of the

Orcutt-Fisher Nuptials.

A quiet, pretty wedding took place
Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr.
and Mrs. Frank E. Orcutt, 1209 East Fourth street, when their second daughter, Mary, was given in marriage to Mr. Arthur L. Fisher of Tyro, Kan. The ceremony was performed at two o'clock by Rev. Claude J. Miller of the First Christian Church, in the presence of the family and a few intimate friends. A three-course wedding luncheon in green and white followed. The table was centered with a large crystal basket of white flowers, roses and syringas. Ropes of smilax hung from the electrolier and were caught at the corners and sides of the table where stood the crystal candle holder that held unshaded candles. The cupid place cards were tied with white ribbons. Plates were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Orcutt and daughters, Miss Alice Orcutt and Bernice; Rev. and Mrs.
Claude J. Miller, Miss Margaret Mc-Dougal and Miss Phyllis Saylor.

The bride was simply dressed in white voile made over net, with trimmings of hand-made macrame lace,
and her hair was wreathed in white roses. Her little sister, Bernice, prettily dressed in white, stood by her side during the ceremony carrying a basket of white roses. Just before the ceremony Miss Phyllis Saylor sang "O, Promise Me" and "My Sweet." The bride and groom left on the evening Burlington train for a few days' stay in Kansas City, when they will go to their home in Tyro, Kan., where a home is in complete readiness for them, even to a growing garden. Mr. Fisher is a successful merchant of Tyro and is in every way worthy of the bride he has won.
He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Fisher of Caney, Kan. The elder Mr.
Fisher has been a merchant of Caney
for many years and is also president of the board of education there. Mrs.
Fisher is one of Maryville's sweetest and best girls. She graduated from the high school in the class of 1908
and from the Northwest Normal with the class of 1911. She taught in the schools of Fairfax two years and the past year in the schools of Caney, Kan. She has been an active member of the Christian Church since childhood, has always been popular socially, and was a member of the Sigma Delta Chi sorority, a social organization of State Normal girls. The best wishes of hosts of friends will go

TO MAKE OCEAN
TRAVEL SAFER

Bill Just Introduced Safeguards Lives of Liners' Passengers.

SUGGESTED BY TITANIC WRECK

Stringent Regulation and Control of Wireless Communication One of Important Points Embodied in New Laws.

Washington, June 4.—An all-inclusive bill, to be denominated "the ocean safety act of 1912," designed to cover all the navigation lessons drawn from the Titanic disaster, was introduced by Senator Nelson of Minnesota, chairman of the commerce committee, which through a subcommittee investigated that disaster.

The bill includes stringent regulations for better wireless equipment, continuously operated on ocean and Great Lakes vessels carrying 50 or more persons, just as provided in a bill which has passed the house and almost identical with a bill already passed by the senate. This wireless section vests control of the apparatus in the master of the vessel and to avoid the wireless communication being shut off by failure of the vessel's engines, requires a powerful auxiliary power supply that can communicate 100 miles at all times.

Recognizes Foreign Laws.

The Nelson bill would recognize foreign steamship laws whenever they are as effective as American laws and regulations; would equip every passenger craft leaving an American port with sufficient lifeboats to accommodate everybody aboard, together with other safety equipment; and would create a commission of five persons to investigate here and abroad merchant marine construction. It would require rigid port examination, boat drills, define qualification of seamen; penalize failure to assist any person in distress at sea; and make criminally liable any master, managing owner, steamship director or principal resident agent of a foreign steamship for sending from an American port a vessel so unseaworthy as to endanger life.

No Duty on War Material.

The $1,000,000 provision of the naval appropriation bill for a great wireless station system is designed to provide direct control of the American naval vessels from Washington "throughout all probable spheres of action" and to maintain the direct communication with the insular possessions and Alaska, despite the possible failure or destruction of cables. It is regarded by the navy department as vital to national defense.

Free admission of war material
from abroad is urged by the administration, not because any such purchases are now contemplated, but because the navy department might be forced to buy abroad in emergency.
The house bill would make it impossible for the government to procure powder for the government factory at Indian Head, Md., should be disabled, and the senate committee corrected this.

TO DISCUSS LABOR'S DISEASES

Prominent Physicians and Health Officials Meet to Plan Protective Legislation for Workers.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 4.—The second National Conference on Industrial Diseases, under the auspices of the American Association for Labor Legislation, is in session at Atlantic City, with a two days' program, including a joint meeting with the American Medical association, which covers practically every phase of the hygiene of occupations and contains the names of leading American authorities on the prevention and treatment of diseases caused by work. The delegates include prominent physicians, labor and health bureau officials, sanitary inspectors, special investigators of labor problems, insurance experts, industrial engineers and representatives of labor organizations. The key-note of the conference is the need for thorough investigation of the physical ills to which working men and working women are subject by reason of their occupations, as a basis for protective labor legislation in the interest of health and efficiency.

The first session, which met at the Hotel Marlborough this morning, was called to order by Charles P. Neill, United States commissioner of labor.
The subject under discussion was the "Investigation of Industrial Diseases," and addresses were made by Leonard W. Hatch, chief statistician of the New York department of labor; Dr.
Richard C. Cabot, founder of the social service department of the Massachusetts general hospital, and Frederick Hoffman, expert on unhealthful trades and industrial diseases.

CHARLES HYSLOP,

WABASH EMPLOYS A "WATER DOCTOR"

Newly Appointed Official Will See That The Wabash Locomotives Drink Nothing But "Pure" Water.

"He has a stomach of iron" can no longer mean that a man may eat anything without fear of indigestion; for it seems that even stomachs of iron are thus afflicted.

Mr. W. A. Pownall, the newly appointed Water Inspector of the Wabash, says that locomotives have persistent attacks of "dyspepsia," and it is costing the railroads so much money that it has been put up to Mr. Pownall to work a "cure."

It seems that all waters have more or less of two kinds of mineral salts—"incrusting salts" and "alkali salts," as Mr. Pownall terms them. These salts clog up the boiler very quickly and make it necessary to have the boiler "blown off" frequently, and now and then even taken out of service and washed. Both the blow-outs and the lay-offs mean a loss of money—the amount of which the railroads have now figured almost exactly.

By the liberal use of soda ash, through certain chemical processes, these "salts" can be practically eliminated from the water. However, as the waters vary at different points, the treatment must also vary; but the Wabash purposes to have the water at every point "cured" so that it will be exactly suited to locomotive consumption.

The cost of the treatment is about $17 per engine per year; but it is estimated that the saving on each engine because of the use of "cured" water will amount to over $400 per year. When it is realized that the Wabash has several hundred engines in service, it can be seen that a "water doctor" is a mighty handy official to have around; also a good investment.

Not only will the Wabash be benefited by the study of the local water conditions over its entire system, but industrial plants along the Wabash lines will be able to take advantage of Mr. Pownall's researches and thereby save themselves thousands of dollars annually in wear and tear to their equipment.

Car Ahead

By Harmony Weller

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press)

George Verner entered a crowded surface car and found the last unoccupied seat. It chanced to be directly behind a very young woman and an infant.

Verner attempted to become interested in his paper, but the profile of the girl ahead of him stole his glances with every turn of her head. She was very young, very new to motherhood apparently; the man behind knew this because of the frantic, strained effort she made to keep the child in one position that it might not awake. A more experienced mother would have known that the baby would rest more comfortably in the easy relaxation of her arms. Verner remembered the fearful, breathless clutch with which he had first held his sister's baby, but gradually that feeling of holding a breakable toy had left him.

There was that same fear in the eyes of the young girl ahead of him, and Verner knew that she was living in momentary dread of the child failing to pieces in her arms.

He was beginning to sense the strain of her tense attitude when the car came to a stop.

"Car ahead!" yelled the conductor. The passengers, in various stages of peevishness, gathered themselves and their belongings and prepared to follow the conductor's bidding.

Not so with the woman and the baby. She cast one startled glance at the outgoing passengers, and then her eyes met Verner's. There was positive tragedy in their depths. Then it was that Verner saw the big suit case on the floor beside her.

"How did she manage to get on the car if she couldn't get off with a suit case and a baby?" Verner asked himself while he raised his cap and addressed her.

"If you will permit me—I will carry."

"Oh—if you would be so kind," she gasped in a frightened little voice, and before Verner realized it she had

put the baby in his arms and was about to pick up the suit case. "I am more used to this," she said with a half blush.

"I can easily take both," Verner told her as he swung the tiny infant against one big shoulder and took the suit case from her.

"Her eyes are decidedly coquettish for a young mother," was his inward comment as he helped her into the car ahead. He found it within his consciousness to condemn married flirts, even though they had shaded gray eyes and one elusive dimple.

When he had put her comfortably into another seat in the car ahead she made room for him beside her and sent up a smile into Verner's eyes.

Although he felt himself to be treading on dangerous ground, he accepted the offered seat. His destination was a few blocks beyond and he felt that his heart could not be hopelessly damaged in so short a time. He sighed as he wondered who the man might be who called this little beauty his own.

"You seem perfectly at home with babies," the girl remarked by way of breaking a more or less awkward silence.

"I have three of my own," Verner told her in a half jesting manner, and wondered afterward why he wanted to convey that impression.

"Oh," was all the girl said, but her tone was noticeably colder, her attitude more aloof.

The girl's frigidity spurred on the man's imagination. He talked glibly of a beautiful wife and children whom he had never seen, of a home he had never known.

An inscrutable smile, not unlike that of the Mona Lisa, hovered over the young woman's eyes and lips. Verner wondered whether or not she was believing him.

A sense of irritation stole over him at the mockery in her eyes, and when his destination drew near he was half glad, half sorry.

"I regret I cannot go on with you and help you when you get off the car," he said by way of leave taking. "I have a business engagement."

"Thank you very much," she replied sweetly, "but baby's father will meet us at the end of the line."

Verner bowed formally and received a cool little nod in response. Nor did he give way to his desire to turn and watch the car as it whizzed off toward the end of the suburban line.

The young woman looked regretfully after him; then she sighed as she gazed down at the sleeping baby and drew him with greater tenderness into her arms.

"He is too good looking even for dreams," she murmured, and whether she referred to the small man in her arms or the big man on the street no one, perhaps not even the girl herself, knew.

Another meeting did not occur until some three months later. It was at a dance given by the suburban yacht club.

Verner entered the ball room with a stately beauty on his arm. Before they had made one turn of the room he knew that the little mother was among the guests and that she was popular with a number of cavaliers.

The stately beauty felt Verner's arms stiffen around her waist and wondered at his sudden lack of interest in her breezy conversation.

She might be a widow, was the thought uppermost in Verner's mind, but the brilliance of her costume and the existence of the tiny infant practically denied this.

Together with his condemnation of married flirts Verner felt irritated and jealous because of the men who dangled over the girl's dance order.

He avoided catching her eye as long as he could, but when she danced so close to him that he saw the mockery in her expression and her nod to him he could only return her greeting.

After that Verner found that he was being introduced to her.

"The ninth and seventeenth dances are leap year waltzes, Mr. Verner," she said, looking laughingly into his eyes. "May I please have both of them?"

"You may if I may have two others," he put in quickly.

She blushed swiftly and handed Verner her card.

"Have you a dance left, Miss Gregory?" another moth about the candle questioned the girl.

Verner's startled, interrogative eyes searched the girl's face, and she laughed.

"You are not married—then?" he questioned without regard for the amused listeners.

"Not any more than you are, Mr. Verner." She glanced at him from beneath her lashes. "You know—I didn't believe, even for a moment, that you had three kiddies."

Verner had the grace to blush. "Just the same," he told her laughingly, "you deliberately tried to palm that baby off as yours."

"I did not," she retorted quickly. "You took it entirely for granted. I was merely carrying my brother's baby over to my home and somebody helped me both on and off the car. Of course—" she paused and glanced shyly at Verner—"none of us even dreamed of my having to change cars."

"And yet," he looked deep into her eyes, "it was fortunate—in this case, wasn't it?" He waited with laughter in his eyes but a compelling note in his voice.

Alice Gregory looked up and the dimple came into play.

"Perhaps it was," she said.
